How to use your Official Super Mario Bros. Scorepad

This Super Mario Bros. Scorepad was designed by the pros, for the pros, for use in actual video game tournaments. You can use it to have your own "certified" contests with friends. Or, if you're playing by yourself, you can keep track of your own progress as you improve your personal score.

And remember, you must submit an Official Scoresheet to enter the Fun Club High Score Competition.

In each Scorepad, you'll find 40 Official Scoresheets. Every sheet gives you 10 lines (for a total of 10 games) to write your name, date of game, highest World-Level you've achieved, and your score. Here's an example of how to fill one out:

Name of Player	Date of Game	Highest World-Level	Final Score
John Hoover	3-12-87	6 - 1	183,750

How to keep track of all the discoveries you make

On the bottom half of each scoresheet you'll find a Discovery Log. Fill it out and you'll have a record of all the fantastic finds you've made while playing Super Mario Bros. It will help you remember how to avoid danger, get super powers, score extra points...and get closer to the princess!

For complete instructions on how to fill out your Discovery Log, see back of Scorepad.

How to enter the Nintendo Fun Club High Score Competition

1. Fill out your name, date, highest World-Level and score on an Official Scoresheet. (If the sheet is filled with other games you don't want our judges to consider, just circle the game you do want them to look at.)

2. Take a photograph of your TV screen showing your score. For best results, turn off all the lights in the room, do not use a flash, and use a 35 mm camera if possible.

3. Mail both the photograph and your Official Scoresheet to:
